

Flying Chair Corps

During WWII my father served at a desk job in the Army Air Corps. He and his fellow desk jockies were frustrated that they were not flying. They invented the Flying Chair Corps and had these silver wings made up.

While building a flying machine the in the parsonage basement, I came upon these wings in a Mason jar. It was an “Ah Ha” moment. Eventually Dad did fly in B-29s.